

Current Perspectives on the Protests in Belarus

Digital Talks at Leipzig University

Perspectives from Academia on the Current Protests in Belarus

Monday, 14th December 2020, 17.00 - 18.00 CET

©Tsimafei Malakhouski

For more than three months, people in Belarus have been taking to the streets to raise their voices against Alexander Lukashenko's authoritarian system. More than 25,000 people have been arrested to date, many of them injured by the brutal actions of the police forces, and several people have died. More and more opposition members are leaving the country, and the remaining democracy movement is appealing to the international community for support. Our series of talks follows the call for solidarity of the German Association for East European Studies and invites representatives of the Belarusian civil society to share their perspectives and report on different facets and topics of the protests. You are invited to join the talks and engage in the discussion.

DGO

► Deutsche Gesellschaft für Osteuropakunde e.V.

DGO

JUNGE DGO

UNIVERSITÄT LEIPZIG

EEGA

Leibniz ScienceCampus

GWZO

Leibniz-Institut für
Geschichte und Kultur
des östlichen Europa

In our second talk, we address the Perspectives from Academia on the Current Protests in Belarus. Therefore, we are pleased to welcome Pavel Barkouski and Tsimafei Malakhouski. Pavel Barkouski, PhD, is currently fellow at the IWM in Vienna and a former DAAD research fellow. He was lecturer in Social Philosophy and History of Philosophy at the Belarusian State University and organized a protest at the Philosophical Faculty in September. He is the organizer of Pradmova, an intellectual book festival. Tsimafei Malakhouski studies Political Science at the European Humanities University, Vilnius. He coordinates the project "Honest University" that assists protesting students and faculty members at Belarusian Universities and opened a helping center for oppressed academics.

Speakers

Pavel Barkouski

Activist and Lecturer in Cultural Philosophy

Tsimafei Malakouski

Activist and Student at the European Humanities University, Vilnius

Host

Anja Jahn

Co-Spokesperson of the Junge DGO Leipzig Regional Group/GWZO

Sign up for the event with this link:

<https://uni-leipzig.zoom.us/meeting/register/tZYrduugpjwqHNKx3ZmMZWMBnO3no5CpDk7j>

The series of talks Current Perspectives on the Protests in Belarus is a cooperation event between the Junge DGO Leipzig regional group, the History Department, the Global and European Studies Institute and the Institute for Slavic Studies at the University of Leipzig, the Leibniz Campus "Eastern Europe-Global Area" and the Leibniz Institute for History and Culture of Eastern Europe